Stay calm, listen carefully, and trust your practice—every correct answer brings you closer to your target band.

Be careful—speakers often change information, and the correct answer comes after words like:

◇ Contrast / Change of Idea Signals

- . but
- . however
- . although
- . though
- . even though
- . yet
- . still
- . nevertheless
- . on the other hand

◇ Correction / Change (Very Important for Listening)

- . actually
- . in fact
- . I mean
- . well
- . no, sorry...
- . let me correct that...
- . or rather

◇ Example (IELTS style)

- . “The class is on Monday... but actually it has been moved to Tuesday.”

👉 Correct answer: Tuesday

👉 In IELTS Listening, the speaker often gives a wrong/old idea first, then corrects or changes it using words like but, however, actually, sorry, well.

👉 The correct answer usually comes AFTER the change.

Examples:

1. “We originally planned the seminar for Monday the 12th... but actually, the lecturer isn’t available, so it’s been moved to Wednesday the 14th.”

👉 Correct answer: Wednesday the 14th

2. “The standard ticket costs $120... but there’s a student discount, so you’ll only pay $90.”

👉 Correct answer: $90

3. “The course lasts for six weeks... though, if you choose the intensive option, it only takes four weeks.”

👉 Correct answer: four weeks

💡 Golden Rule for IELTS Listening:

👉 Don’t trust the first information.

👉 The speaker often changes or corrects it.

👉 Always listen carefully until the sentence ends.
